YOUNG WOMEN'S JAZZ WORKSHOPS

A short course aimed at women who are interested in pursuing jazz and improvised music, the Young

Women's Jazz Workshops have been changing the face of Australian jazz since 2002. Developed by Dr Sandy Evans OAM and the Sydney Improvised Music Association to develop skills and confidence in improvised music, this pioneering program has had a direct impact on the number of women studying jazz at conservatoriums across the country.

The course offers exclusive opportunities for participants including ongoing performance and touring prospects. Participants also create new friendships and networks with likeminded people. Our course tutors are sought-after educators and in-demand musicians. The course includes masterclasses with leading practitioners in the field. In 2016, the workshops will be held in Sydney, Perth and Canberra for the first time. This could be a life changing experience, so don't hesitate in applying today!

We cater to all skill levels. Entry is by written application and audition. Classes run on Saturdays over eight weeks and culminate in a public concert.
